

Alex Briscoe Bio

Alex Briscoe is the Principal of the California Children's Trust and the former Director of the Alameda County Health Care Services Agency, where he led one of the state's largest public health systems with an annual budget of $700 million and 6,200 FTE staff and contractors. As a mental health practitioner in adolescent services and youth development, he has designed and administered a number of mental health and physical health programs and services and specializes in Medicaid policy and administration, emergency medical services, youth voice and crisis counseling, and safety net design and administration. Mr. Briscoe has served on the Alameda County First Five Commission, The Alameda Alliance, and The Kaiser Commission on Medicaid to name a few. He has advised or collaborated with a number of foundations including The Atlantic Philanthropies, The Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, The Annie E. Casey Foundation, The California Endowment, and Tipping Point Community.